Louisville and Great Southern COLD WEATHER! This has been the universal topic for the past few weeks.
All over the world the weather has been remarkably cold. In Paris, a few they since, the streets were one glare of the slickest, slipperiest ice ever known in that locality. Nobody could stand upon it. A picture represents the streets de-serted by man and beast, and the backs and other vehicles standing about in the public squares, horseless and unmanned. The same kind of weather has marred the English love of ease and enjoyment; and has disturbed busines and come generally. "Come, gentle spring!" Pullman Palace Cars

"The appearance of Federal troops in the legislative halls of Louisiana has excited an indignation throughout the country that is in no wise too marked for country that is in no wise too marked for the occasion. It is greatly to be regretted, however, that a popular demonstration was impossible until the government troops had committed a distinct act of violence. The time for the people to have spoken in this matter of Federal interposition in the State affairs, was when the central Government crossed the traditions of the country. Usurpation is orably discharged, $8.23\squares, amonth for the term of his service, between the 12th of April, 1801, and the 9th of May, 1885, with a deduction of all bounties heretofore paid by the United States and by States. Subtion meeting, and the press has been nearly united in its condemnation; but we should have snown more wisdom and forethough whad the press spoken as firm-ly and the people resisted as spiritedly when Congress thought fit to pass a law pertaining to local elections, and a United States Marshal appeared at our spirit of centralization; we have aplauded laws passed for the advantage of party, regardless of their significance; we have ustained the whole process of events of which this Louisiana outrage is the legiti-mate result; and we shall fail to accom-plish any permanent good unless we continue the agitation now begun until the Federal government recognizes fully the constitutional limits of its authority, and returns to that attitude toward th States which it maintained in the earlier period of our history. A mere check to the advancing tide of centralization is not enough; the line of demarkation should be between local and central government redrawn; and conservative men, everywhere, should unite for the education of a public entiment designed to watch the slightest infraction of a principle under which alone the States can maintain their independence.

Taking Back Scate.

The names of Carpenter, Chandler, Butler, Bingham, Schenck, and many others of similar ilk have disappeared forever from the Congressional roll. The remaining whipped bullies, such as Blaine, Hale, Hoar, etc., who have so long cracked their whips over Congress, will, after the 4th of March, go to the rear. They will take back wats. They will be taught by the new majority better manners. They will have to listen-to free speech, and a good deal of it. The time is rapidly coming when the voice of the Democratic people of this country, who, North and South, are more than a million of a majority. than a million of a majority, is going to be expressed without fear or favor.

The Republican party has now had an uninterrupted ascendency of fourteen years in the Houses of Congress. This ascendency will be broken up on and oh, rough is the lock of the good ship of State.

And sad are the hours of the fast thinning crew;
For the Chandler had hardly accounted to his fate,
When overboard poss the ship's Carpenter, too.
Now that Carpenter is defeated the organs are beginning to find him out,
The Albany Journal says of him: He has great abilities, but he is a brilliant such complete suppression of free speech, scapegrace, a glittering dare-devil, a unless exercised in its own behalf. If a scapegrace, a glittering dare-devil, a unless exercised in its own behalf. If a reckiess harum-scarum sort of a leader.
